

Steven Green

Senior Director, Grants Management and Compliance

Steven Green joined the Jim Joseph Foundation in June 2011. Currently a Senior Program Officer, his portfolio includes leading the Foundation's Israel education strategy and related grantmaking, and managing grants in educator training, leadership development, and emergency relief and support. He also supports the Foundation's board in its governance practices. Previously as Senior Director, Grants

Management and Compliance, in addition to overseeing a portfolio of grants, he oversaw the strengthening of all aspects of grants management at the Foundation, served as an internal expert on strategic budget analysis, and developed a comprehensive set of resources on nonprofit budgeting best practices.

Prior to joining the Foundation, Steven served as the Southeast Regional Director for the Jewish National Fund based in Atlanta, GA. He also previously worked as Director of Media and Public Affairs for the Consulate General of Israel to the Southeast. Steven currently serves on his local synagogue's Board of Directors and on the Speaker's Bureau and leadership council of 3GSF at the San Francisco Holocaust Center. Steven received his MBA with a focus in Nonprofit Management from Emory University as a Wexner Graduate Fellow/Davidson Scholar and holds additional degrees in Political Science and Jewish Studies. He and his wife, Alana, reside in Corte Madera, CA, with their two sons, Zev and Sasha.
